1. INTRODUCTION

We will, of course, build a new Uzbekistan together with the youth. 2020 will be a turning point in state youth policy.
Shavkat Mirziyoyev

The future of Uzbekistan is in the hands of young people who have dedicated themselves to the development of the Motherland, the happiness of our people, and who are growing up harmoniously in every field. It is our sacred duty to bring them up as worthy representatives of a strong and great state. That is why the education of young people has been identified as a priority in our country.

2. MAIN PART

It is a real task to bring up a harmoniously developed generation of young people who will cherish our independence, who will strive to strengthen it, who will show heroism when necessary, and who will be dedicated to the development of the Motherland and the nation. Talented students are sent to study in the most prestigious universities in foreign countries, lyceums and colleges, schools, universities equipped with modern technology are opened for them, the national training program is being consistently implemented.

In our country, the issue of youth has always risen to the level of state policy. Public youth policy is a combination of legislative and executive measures aimed at recognizing young people as an important strategic force in the country's development on the path to democratic development, the needs of young people in the modern world, their proper adaptation to the existing democratic environment. The main task of youth policy is to reconcile the interests of the younger generation with the national interest, without contradicting the interests of the majority of other strata.

Even today, in the days of quarantine, the issue of educating the future youth of our country as fully developed, educated, talented people is approached in a unique and modern way, the organizational and legal framework for protecting all their rights, freedoms, opportunities and interests is constantly improving. is growing. After all, the fact that distance education, organized in a continuous online manner, ensures the right of young people to education is a practical expression of the education and care that Uzbekistan provides to young people today.

Our country is a country of happy young people, about 64% of the population is young people under 30 years old. Of course, this requires a great deal of attention and care, given the great responsibility of our state, and on the other hand, the attention paid to our youth will bring great success and results tomorrow. Because now more than half of Uzbekistan's labor force is young. In the future, every third leader will be young.

In his speech at the 72nd session of the UN General Assembly, the President said, "The future of our planet depends on how our children grow up to be human beings. Our main task is to create the necessary conditions for young people to show their potential", - he said.

In order to bring the created conditions to a new level, the Presidential Decree "On measures to radically reform the state youth policy in the Republic of Uzbekistan and bring it to a new level" was adopted.

It is no secret that today the perfect mastery of modern science and high technology is becoming a decisive condition for the development of any state and society. Deeply aware of this fact, our state is mobilizing all its efforts and opportunities for our young people to grow up both physically and spiritually. In short, a system of working with young people is being created that has no alternative in any country in the world.

Every parent, every household, every neighborhood, today considers the education of our children as the most important task, able to protect young people from negative influences that are alien to our people and harmful to the consciousness of the new generation, to show the development of the nation and state to the world community. the upbringing of the younger generation is both a duty and an obligation. After all, human life is directly related to morality, education.

From the first years of independence, with the adoption of the Law "On the Fundamentals of State Youth Policy in the Republic of Uzbekistan", the issue of attention to youth in our country has risen to the level of state policy. The law allowed the state, which is the main reformer, to carry out its activities in the key strategic areas of youth in a consistent and systematic manner. Article 1 of the law states, "Youth policy is a priority of the state activity of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the purpose of which is to ensure the social formation and development of young people, their creative potential in the interests of society as fully as possible. "It consists of creating and guaranteeing the socio-economic, legal and organizational conditions for its realization," he said.

The adoption of the Law on State Youth Policy on September 14, 2016, not only strengthened the legal capacity of young people, but also raised the work in this area to a new level. Over the past period, a wide range of governmental and non-governmental organizations have worked to ensure the implementation of this law in our country. During the years of independence, the state youth policy in our country has been radically reformed, special attention has been paid to raising their legal and political culture, and a number of targeted measures have been taken. This area has been developed to some extent, including taking into account the specifics of raising the legal and political culture of young people, the formation of legal and political culture through the participation of young people in socio-political events, the basis for cooperation between state and civil society institutions a creative legal framework has been created.

3. CONCLUSION

It should also be noted that every organization and institution in our country creates great conditions and opportunities for the development of young people, their support and demonstration of their talents. After all, creating the necessary opportunities for the builders of the great future is a worthy contribution to the development of the Motherland!
